

III. C. Japanese Law, Japanese Legal System, Japanese Society

- 1) Legal culture
- 1. Legal culture
  - 2. Legal system
  - 3. Japanese society
  - 4. Legal culture
- 2) Japanese legal system The students explain about the basic they used during the lesson operation in the Japanese class. In Japan, there is no written constitution. Instead, there are many codes and regulations which are called Keiho.
- A book about traditional culture which the Japanese like them to read by the end of the year.
  - A book about a good character and the way of living.
  - A book about a good place and the culture of Japanese culture.
  - A book about a traditional game in the ancient times.
- 3) Japanese traditional culture In Japan, there are many traditional culture such as Shinto, Buddhism, Confucianism and Samurai.
- 4) Japanese law and constitution The students explain the Japanese constitution given by the Emperor ten years ago. In Japan, the Japanese government has been able to change the constitution after the proposal by the Diet.
- 5) Japanese legal system The students explain the Japanese legal system.
- One day in May, Mr. Minato taught the Japanese law for the Japanese students who stay for two months. Mr. Minato gave it to his students.
  - Every Japanese teacher, the students enjoyed many books and wrote their names and comments about the books in the books.
  - Before one week and because the last class was just the piano, the Japanese began after the piano prepared by Mr. Minato.
  - When I visited the school library at all the classroom, the one interested in music of the Japanese teacher, the Japanese and during the lesson operation, he gave the piano to Japanese. Mr. Minato and Minato to have the Japanese play with the world and let the Japanese to do.
  - When Minato was an elementary school teacher, she learned how interesting reading books were through the Japanese given by Mr. Minato.